Summer Solstice Becomes Great Celebration

July, 2011

This year's Summer Solstice Ceremony marked the beginning of a new five year term of the Salinan Tribe's agreement with State Parks, that officially allows the Salinan people to ascend Morro Rock, or Lesamo, twice a year for traditional ceremony. The Salinan people have gone to the top of Lesamo to have ceremony for many, perhaps thousands of years. It is a great gift to be able to go to the top again, and share it with future generations. There were many of the usual faces from the tribe, and this year was extremely well attended by the public. Some estimates were 150+ and the event was broadcast live with Dave Hovde on the local news channel, KSBY. The event was a fine example of Salinan warmth, generosity and hospitality.

The first five years of coming to Morro Rock for Solstice ceremonies has seen a lot of growth. One example is the public outreach that has been generated by opening up the fires at the base of the Rock to the public. Gradually, things have been added to include everyone who stops by. Like John Burch said in his introduction at the ceremonial circle, "We want to include all of you! We're all a part of the Human Tribe!" There were many wonderful guests, such as Father Larry, who offered up a prayer and blessings for the tribe and all who attended. Everyone at the event said they felt welcome, and there was a general good feeling all around.

This year the tribe was joined by its dependable drummers, who we are so grateful to, along with several guest-helpers. There was a group of Aztec Sun Dancers, who were fascinating to watch, and who set a very fine example of respect and honor for their tradition. It's interesting to know that each one of the dancers have worked on making their own regalia, and they can tell the story that goes with each dance. After their performance their leader led a prayer circle, which was very moving.

At dusk everyone was invited to gather on the shoreline, given a small paper bag, and told to place their hopes, wishes, or prayers in it. Then each person carried their bag of light to a large rock that sits over the ocean, and placed them on it. It was an inspiring sight, with so many wishes flickering over the water. John calls it "The Wishing Rock of Lights", and he began this new tradition so that everyone could participate in their own way.

A special thanks to each and every person who worked to make this event such a success. There are far too many to name, but you are greatly appreciated! It was a positive outreach to the public.

SALINAN TRIBE ANNUAL FUNDRAISER AND BBQ.

The verdict is in. This year's annual fundraiser and barbecue was a HUGE success! May 14th our annual fundraiser at the San Luis Sportsman Association was filled with fun and excitement. There were many new faces this year and lots of the tried and true. Bingo filled the hall for a few hours while the shooters enjoyed a beautiful day outside. The little Indians spent the day hunting lizards and catching bugs. Who knew it would be that easy to entertain them? The tribe made a good deal of profits from the barbecue and the trap shooting. Between that and the 50/50 we should be able to fund our newsletter a while longer. The council worked together to put on a fabulous feast. We would like to give a special thanks to everyone involved in making this day a success. Thank you to James Pierce and all of the people who helped on the barbecue, it was a delicious meal. Thanks to Russ Pierce who ran the trap house and set up the event with the San Luis Sportsman Association. Susan Latta took pictures for the tribe. The council is looking forward to our next big get together which will be our gathering. The gathering is tentatively scheduled for October 8, 2011 at Mission San Miguel. There will be more to come on that event.

2011 Morro Bay Kite Festival

The Kite Festival in Morro Bay was a great success. The Salinan Tribe was well received. We were the special guests of the event. Several Tribal members participated to make the day wonderful. The parade was the first event, which we headed. Then we gathered at the Rock for the kite flying and the Prayer for the wind. The prayer was recited by Ernest Pierce who did an outstanding job memorizing the whole prayer by heart. It was very touching. Bruce Flood also helped by smudging sage to the four winds. Thanks to all who came to support our tribe. By: Pam Flood
